

Waunakee Rotary Club

Feb. 8, 2007
Vol. 40 No. 30

The Waunakee Rotary Club reviewed its past and present projects and events at the Feb. 1 Club Assembly meeting.

President Drew Lawrence reported that the holiday party was a fun time, and he now has a singing fish, thanks to the gift exchange. Expect that fish to be a prize for the best or worst bowler at an upcoming bowling event.

Drew reported on the short board of directors' meeting from the previous morning. The next major social event coming up for the club is the steak fry, and the board discussed holding this on a Thursday evening as the regular club membership meeting. It is coming up June 28.

The board of directors accepted two new members, Traci Mann and Daniel Muxfeld.

The board also accepted the resignation of Wendy Grunewald-Fahlgren.

Among the committee reports, Pat Durden reported that upcoming fund raisers include the Whitetails Unlimited event on Feb. 27, which is a big one for the club. The Super Raffle is also coming up, as is Waunafest.

Tom Reis reported for the community service committee. We should get the final numbers in for the Rotary in Lights event, and checks will be distributed to the girls' softball and hockey booster clubs, Tom said.

Lynne Spielman reported that the international committee is seeking funds to send to Nigeria so that a public school there can purchase books. This will save the expense of shipping books that have been collected in the Waunakee community to Nigeria, she said.

Jim Tubbs of the meetings and publicity committee reported that speakers are lined up through March 15. Three separate meetings will be held on international topics. Jim thanked other Rotarians for helping the committee find speakers and encouraged others to help line up future programs.

Drew reported for the Interact committee. That committee is working with the high school and the school board to start a youth Rotary Interact Club. The club is committed to hosting an exchange student for the 2007-08 school year, and host families are needed. Club members who will help transport exchange students or work with youths will need background checks.

Jeremiah Gollon reported for the fellowship committee. That committee is planning a bowling outing March 4 from 3-5 p.m. with surprise awards – hence the singing fish. The committee is also discussing scheduling a casual social hour for club members.
